This newsletter shares stories of how the lives of Kyle, Jaden and Makayla were changed because of your help. Your compassion and generosity made this all possible.

Please join me for Family Law CASA's Annual Breakfast on May 9. You will hear from members of the community who also support our CASA kids. We hope you find the program very inspiring and illuminating. We are holding it at the new Seattle Hyatt Regency and you can register through our website or Eventbrite.

Thank you for helping our vulnerable local children.

Your Voice for Local Children

He missed too much school and you got him back on track.

Kyle's Future is Bright

Kyle's parents separated when he was 8 years old. His father had to move out of state for work so Kyle stayed with his mother. Unfortunately, Kyle's mother suffered extreme depression after she lost her job and there was a death in the family.

During Kyle's sixth grade year he missed 2 months of school and his teachers wanted to hold him back. School staff often reported that Kyle was hungry during the school day.

Because of you, Kyle was helped by an Advocate.

After talking with Kyle the advocate created a safe plan that was court ordered. As soon as Kyle was able to live with his father and begin to see a therapist, his grades improved. Kyle's passion for science earned him first prize in the science fair this past spring. Kyle is able to see his mother for visits and, as recommended by the advocate, his mother is receiving mental health support.

Thanks to your gift Kyle is happier and excelling in school.

Jaden and Makayla just wanted the yelling to stop.

Thank you for helping Jaden and Makayla

Jaden and Makayla were isolated and oftentimes just had each other. Their father's controlling behavior and verbal insults made their home an uncertain place. Since they were homeschooled, Jaden and Makayla could not get away from the arguing between their parents.

Thanks to you, the court appointed an Advocate to ensure the children had access to resources, specifically for their academics. It was discovered that Makayla was struggling to read due to her undiagnosed dyslexia. Both children and their mother began to receive therapy. Their father was also ordered to do domestic violence treatment before he could have the children for overnights. The Advocate recommended that Jaden and Makayla see a doctor as they had missed several medical appointments over the years.

Now, Jaden and Makayla are in a safer environment because you helped give them a voice in court.
